Vietri, America's largest importer of Italian handcrafted dinnerware and table accessories, invites community members for a night of conversation, connections and good food. On June 24, Vietri partners with Hillsborough's Panciuto for a locally sourced, four-course dinner.

During the meal, Vietri's CEO Susan Gravely will share the story of her business while four-time James Beard Award-nominated chef Aaron Vandermark speaks about his relationships with NC farmers and his inspiration.

The dinner will be served family-style on one large community table - on Vietri dinnerware, of course - and served with wine. All attendees will receive a handcrafted gift at the dinner's conclusion.

Diners can look forward to the tentative menu of light dishes such as assorted cheeses, jams, jellies, pickles and grilled bread and warmed summer squash custard, pickled onions, micro radish greens. Main courses include fish crudo, cold black spaghetti, cucumber strings, green chili paste, cucumber brood, sungolds, and breadcrumbs; tomato braised pork shanks, saffron-Sicilian sugo, scallions, flash fried pardons, roasted corn
